The Divided Self An Existential

The divided self like the divided mind, is an abstraction and like all things human, requires our compassion to understand. While The Divided Self is not a new book (around since 1959/1960) it remains to this day a ground breaking psychological study.

The Divided Self: An Existential Study in Sanity and ...

"The Divided Self" is an existential study in sanity and madness. The subtitle says it all. It is existentialist in two ways. First, it strikes against the whole schematization put forth by traditional psychiatry and the orthodox psychoanalysis, as both try to encapsulate the patient's psychology within rigid frameworks.

About The Divided Self. Dr. Laing's first purpose is to make madness and the process of going mad comprehensible. In this, with case studies of schizophrenic patients, he succeeds brilliantly, but he does more: through a vision of sanity and madness as 'degrees of conjunction and disjunction between two persons where the one is sane by common consent' he offers a rich existential analysis of personal alienation.

Chapter 1. The existential-phenomenological foundations for a science of persons

The Divided Self Laing's most influential book; 'Existential phenomenology attempts to characterize the nature of a person's experience of the world and himself. It is not so much an attempt to describe particular objects of his experience as to set all particular experiences within the context of his whole being-in-the-world.
