The Satyrca Of Petronius An

The Satyricon, Satyricon liber (The Book of Satyrlike Adventures), or Satyrca, is a Latin work of fiction believed to have been written by Gaius Petronius, though the manuscript tradition identifies the author as Titus Petronius. The Satyricon is an example of Menippean satire, which is different from the formal verse satire of Juvenal or Horace. The work contains a mixture of prose and verse ...

Satyricon - Wikipedia

A comic masterpiece of classical antiquity, the Satyrca (or Satyricon) of Petronius is a tantalizing work of fiction—part poetry, part prose, hilariously vulgar, exquisitely elegant, its original form and length as much a matter of speculation as the identity of its author. Its brilliance and enduring influence are, however, beyond dispute.

So begins the Satyrca, a bizarre odyssey through the carnivalesque landscape of Nero's empire. The author of the Satyrca, Petronius, had been Nero's intimate and advisor on all matters of artistic taste and elegance but a jealous rival turned Nero against him. No longer enduring "the suspense of fear or of hope," Petronius eluded his former patron by ending his own life.
